

Steve is a proven business builder, creative innovator and a dynamic developer of people. His primary role focuses on mission and vision building operationally excellent companies that radically impact the lives of people. He leads all efforts on identifying and recruiting gifted and talented people to the ADG team.

Steve began his career with an electrical distributor and implemented operational efficiencies and assisted in growing revenues by over 400%. By age 24 he was promoted to president of the company and has subsequently held key business development and management positions with companies in the small and medium sized business sectors. In 2001 he founded Concierge of Indianapolis, a corporate entertainment and hospitality company. The company grew to serve national and international clientele.

Most recently, Steve served as National Director of Field Ministry and member of the management team of CBMC, a national ministry in the marketplace, where he helped to re-establish their national brand and implement a leadership development and training process that have been contributing factors to organizational expansion and national leaders.

His unique approach to coaching and encouraging inspires people to unleash their God-given potential.